Let's Talk Specialty!

If you scan my wall calendar, you'll see a big red circle around March 19. For most people it's a date that passes mostly unnoticed, but not for those of us in the world of specialty nursing. After all, March 19 is International Certified Nurses Day! ... read more

3. RNAO END: RNAO speaks out on emerging issues that impact on nurses and the nursing profession, health and health care.

Public Forum Stakeholders Pilot Meeting - March 5th, 2013

IPNIG in cooperation with OHNIG and IB-SIG-RPNAO presented a pilot public forum to Canadian Federation University Women CUFW for stakeholder input:

"Health Care System Challenges and Independent Practice Nurses".

The panel members presented a power point presentation on the "facts" of health care system over the past two decades to present times. They described the health care system current status, existing gaps in health care, changes evolving and cancellations in health care delivery. They noted the role and scope of practice of registered nurses and the existing presence of a huge number of registered nurses outside the public system who would like recognition i.e. independent private practice registered nurses. What would it mean to the public stakeholder if more registered nurses with specialized skills were available with "right on time" nursing health care to meet their needs?

The written feedback from the attendees strongly indicated the public lack of knowledge of health care changes in the current system e.g. closure of CCAC ECCO ... [read the report summary here] and cancellation of multiple smaller units e.g. Diabetic Association. The attendees had misconceptions and scant knowledge that many registered nurses work by their own choice or since terminated as registered nurses from the public system as independent private practice owner operated businesses. The attendees broadly assumed all registered nurses were in the public funded system as opposed to the private funded insurance system or paid solely by the client. The knowledge gained from this pilot public forum will assist with future forums.

4. RNAO END: RNAO influences healthy public policy to positively impact the determinants of health, supporting Medicare and strengthening a publicly funded, not-for-profit health-care system.

Feb 15th, 2013 met with Frank Klees MPP Newmarket-Aurora to discuss Ontario's current health care unsustainable debt and the mega dollars spent on administration and "non health care related projects" e.g. ORNGE. Indicators presented the need to modernize the Canada Health Act to include the full scope of present day health care professional capabilities inclusive of registered nurses [especially the unrecognized health services of independent private practice nurses]. as well as the need to use modern technology for health care e.g. "aging in place at home monitoring". Discussion on the financial cost of Health Care and growing needs especially in light of Ontario's 17 billion dollar health care debt. A discussion on how the government planned to increase the needed professional health care services for the aging "Boomer" population, an upcoming tsunami made worse by the extreme lack of long term care facilities. A discussion on the need for federal money appropriately spent to create a national strategy for an integrated national health care system in conjunction with the provinces, inclusive of full utilization of registered nurses from current 10% of nursing capabilities scope of practice to 80% utilization of full scope of nursing care capabilities.

IPNIG members on International Certified Nurses Day March 19 were asked to complete an online opinion survey of their perception of Independent Practice Nurses and where did they fit in to the Health Care System. The goal is for feedback from Independent Practice registered nurses who provide "on site" proactive health care, can navigate the complicated health care system and enable "right on time" nursing care based on primary health care delivery model.
