Jill King takes pleasure in welcoming

Brenda Smith, joining us from British Columbia.

Brenda's thesis explored the perspectives of practicing Canadian nurse entrepreneurs and Canadian nurse leaders with respect to current nursing practice, contexts, and issues that serve to inform and guide the development of national and provincial/territorial policies.

Brenda will share her research findings on corresponding recommendations as they pertain to nursing practice, leadership, education, and research.

RESEARCH on the perspectives of Canadian nurse entrepreneurs

Welcome to Brenda Smith RN, MSN, an occupational health nurse and nurse entrepreneur. Brenda recently completed graduate nursing studies. Building upon the work of Dr. Sarah Wall (now Dr. Sarah Stahlke), Brenda's thesis explored the perspectives of practicing Canadian nurse entrepreneurs and Canadian nurse leaders with respect to current nursing practice, contexts, and issues that serve to inform and guide the development of national and provincial/territorial policies that support nursing entrepreneurship.

Brenda will share her research findings and corresponding recommendations as they pertain to nursing practice, leadership, education, and research.
